MassDOT is hosting the third and final public information meeting on the Interstate 91 (I-91) Viaduct Study. The I-91 Viaduct Study is a conceptual planning study to develop recommendations for a long-term vision for I-91. MassDOT initiated this study to identify existing issues and evaluate alternatives for improvements to the I-91 corridor from US-20/Plainfield Street to the Connecticut state line.

At this meeting, the project team will present an overview of the draft recommendations and the Draft Final Report. The public is encouraged to attend to learn more about the recommendations and provide feedback.
